SUMMARY OF 2006-2007 AISD PARENT SURVEY DISTRICT RESULTS

Strong relationships among staff, students, and parents are critical to student success. In particular, parent involvement in education is associated with higher student achievement (for recent meta-analysis see Fan & Chen, 2004). The AISD Parent Survey was designed to monitor the relationship between campus staff and parents. The survey results provide campuses with feedback about how well-informed parents feel, and about their involvement on campus.

In addition to one open-ended item ("Please tell us what this school has done well and what could be improved")¹, the survey contained twenty multiple-choice items that address:

- Experiences with school staff (Principal, Assistant Principal(s), Counselor(s), Office Staff, Teachers, Parent Support Specialists, Others), including:
 - o Courtesy and respect
 - o Opportunities for two-way communication
 - Welcoming input
 - o Fair treatment of their child
- Opportunities for involvement and participation in various campus activities
- School safety
- Information that they receive from school staff about:
 - o Their child's progress, academic standing, and behavior
 - o School policy
 - o Parent/Family resources and involvement opportunities
 - o Graduation and post-graduation information and resources
- Parents' educational goals for their child

SUMMARY OF 2006-2007 PARENT SURVEY RESULTS

The 2006-2007 Parent Survey was administered in November-December 2006. Each campus principal was asked to ensure that a parent of every student received a survey. The survey was available on paper, with translations in Spanish and Vietnamese, and was available online in all three languages.²

1

¹ Responses to this item were provided to individual principals.

² Over one third of the surveys received (34%) were completed in Spanish, and 7.4% of all surveys were completed online. Paper copies of the Vietnamese version of the survey were also available for campuses by request.

Respondents

The response to the survey in 2006-2007 was not as large as in 2005-2006, despite the continued implementation of strategies intended to increase the response rate³. A total of 14,592 parents responded to the survey, representing approximately 17% of the district's students (see Table 1 for summary by level).

Respondents were asked to report the ethnicity and grade level of the child for whom they were completing the survey. Results (see Tables 2 and 3) indicate that the children for whom parent surveys were completed are representative of the District in terms of both ethnicity and grade level, particularly at the Elementary level; parents of 6th-graders are slightly overrepresented at the Middle school level, and 9th and 12th grade parents are slightly underrepresented.

Key Findings⁵

- As in the past, parents at all levels provided generally positive responses regarding their experiences with AISD schools. In addition, elementary school parents again provided the most positive responses to most items.
- Positive responses increased in 2006-2007 for approximately 70% of the staff ratings. Consistent with 2005-2006 results, parents at all levels most frequently reported positive experiences with Teachers. Also, although the vast majority of parents gave favorable ratings to all staff, Office Staff and Assistant Principal(s) received the greatest percentages of unfavorable ratings.
- It is notable that although Office Staff continue to remain among the lower-rated staff, their ratings for 2006-2007 did increase for all 4 staff items.
- Parents at all levels reported that they were more likely to "strongly agree" this year than in 2005-2006 that staff provided them with positive feedback about their child. This provides encouragement for the continuation of district Positive Behavior Support efforts.
- With regard to information about school and district policies, parents feel most informed about their child's academic progress and academic goals and plans. However, responses from parents at all levels suggest that they are not receiving enough information about their child's preparedness for TAKS or risk of failing a grade.
- For the first time, the Parent Survey included items designed to gather information about parent involvement in campus activities as well as in their child's schoolwork (i.e., homework). Parents reported that they were most likely to attend regularly scheduled parent-teacher conferences and general school meetings (e.g., Open House, Back to School night), and least likely to participate in school committees or fundraising. Parents at all levels also reported that they regularly help their child with homework⁶.

AISD Department of Program Evaluation

⁴ Parents identified their child's ethnicity, not their own.

⁵ Each campus principal has received a report containing item results for his or her respective campus and for all schools at the same level. Principals are encouraged to review item results and to share results with campus staff as appropriate. In addition, principals are asked to provide campus results to Campus Advisory Councils for use during the development of Campus Improvement Plans.

⁶ 95% of Elementary, 89% of Middle School, and 72% of High School parents "strongly agree."

Item Results

The results of each survey item (Questions 5-19) are presented in graphical form below. Longitudinal results are provided, where applicable.

The results may be used to determine areas of strength and opportunities for improvement. Large percentages of "Strongly Agree" and "Agree" indicate areas in which campus staff excel, and large percentages of "Disagree" and "Strongly Disagree" indicate areas for possible improvement. Large increases or decreases from year to year should be examined to determine whether changes in policy or practice might account for changes in parent perceptions. The results may also be used to identify staff categories with consistently positive or negative responses. These responses can inform district administration regarding opportunities for praise and areas of focus for professional development. Principals are encouraged to discuss these results with campus staff and Campus Advisory Councils.

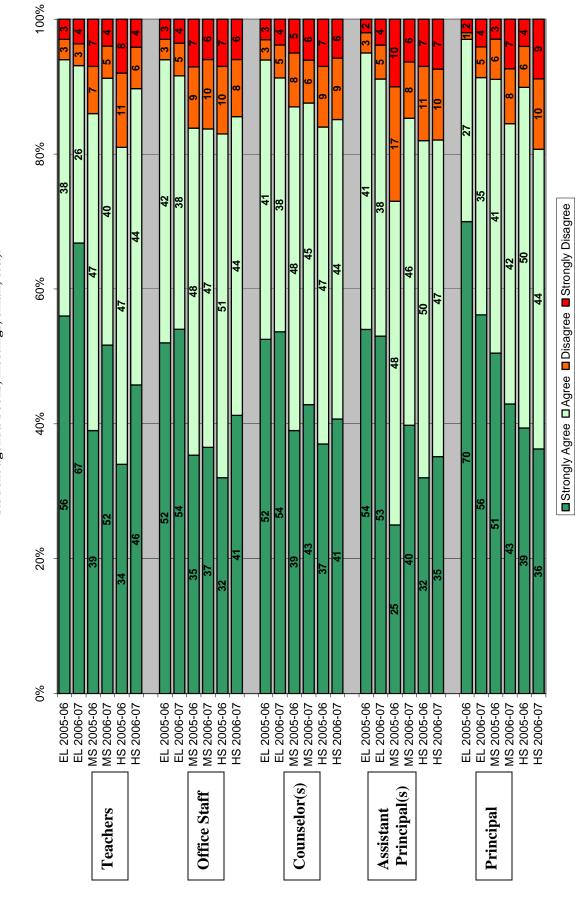

⁷ Percentages do not include responses of "Don't Know" or "Does Not Apply." Information regarding the number of respondents selecting each response option, including "Don't Know" and "Does Not Apply," can be found in Appendix A. It may be informative to identify items with large numbers of "Don't Know" responses.
